AGI INSULATION

Insulation is the key to true comfort and lower household running costs

Insulation is the most cost effective way to improve thermal efficiency, reduce energy costs and address greenhouse gas abatement. Without insulation, even the best designed and constructed home will allow heat gain and loss through external surfaces – as much as 42% of a home's heat can transfer through the ceiling alone.

AGI Insulation is the largest independent distributor of insulation in Australia - and it is the only private insulation company to have a truly national distribution network with outlets in every major capital city. Rather than supply the products of one manufacturer, AGI maintains its absolute independence by providing product recommendations based on product merits rather than contractual obligations.

Our range of insulation products and services includes supply & fit to the residential builder market as well as supply of an extensive range of glasswool, polyester, reflective insulation and high performance rigid insulation such as PIR, XPS and phenolic boards to the commercial, HVAC and industrial markets.
